A very interesting service was held at the Shiloh Baptist church Sunday afternoon, Rev. William J. Crawford, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. The text used is found in the 197th Psalm, 33:4. The subject was, "How Christ Still the Storms of Life." The pastor announced a great truth, when he said that the great waters in the great waters are the works of Jehovah, and His wonders in the deep. This truth is wider than the sea, and deeper than its profoundest fathoms. Those who do business in great waters, who go down to the darkness of care, loneliness and bereavement, those about whom the storms of life have gathered, the lightning and thunder, ever around them, see the works of Jehovah and His wonders in the deep. One who has never seen a storm at sea, or has never felt the swell and fury of the sea in tempest, nothing about them. To see the ocean when God commandeth and raiseth the stormy wind, and lifteth up the waves until they mount to the heavens and go down again to the depths is surely to see the works of Jehovah and His wonders in the deep. But God does not send the storm on us for the storm's sake, nor that He might behold the fury of the sea in tempest; neither does He send affliction for affliction's sake, nor to see the tumult of a human soul disquieted by fears and hopes. This is for humanity's sake, for then they cry unto Jehovah in their trouble, and His gracious purpose is shown when His mercy is revealed in bringing them out of their distresses. It is when the prayer of the troubled ones are heard that the sea is calm, and the waves of the sea are still. There is no danger of the boat going down when Christ is on board. Christ stills the tumult of temptation.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Mrs. Harriet Potter, 81, widow of James N. Potter, formerly a practicing attorney in Danielson, died at her home on Main street at about 2 o'clock Monday morning. Mrs. Potter has been ill with pneumonia, and for the past week her condition had been regarded as serious.

Mrs. Potter was born in the town of Killingly Jan. 3, 1839, a daughter of Erastus and Louise (Wood) Short, and had lived practically all of her life in this town. For many years Mrs. Potter was a teacher in Killingly's schools and scores of people who are now residents here were her pupils as long as 45 and 50 years ago. When she was a teacher in the Danielson school, considered one of the most efficient teachers Killingly has had in its graded schools for the past half century. She had the gift of imparting knowledge and combined this with an earnest interest in her work, which was the means of her success. She was a foundation for the educational future of a great many boys and girls who have since become very successful in many walks of life.

Mrs. Mary Salotti, chairman here of the committee that has in charge the conducting of the drive to raise $300 for the relief of Italy's blind, issued an appeal Monday for generous response to this call, which is being heard throughout the nation in an effort to raise a $1,000,000 fund. No soldiers fought more bravely or more nobly than did those who bore arms in the name of Italy during the war, and none suffered greater hardships or privations in blizzards, the central powers to their knees and thereby saving civilization. In that great work, thousands of wonderful fine young Italians lost their sight forever, facing high explosive shells, gas attacks and other horrors.

Italy, after the strain of the war, is not in position today to assist as she would like to do these blind veterans, so is making an appeal in the "United States" for help.

Mrs. Salotti and the members of the committee will welcome gifts of money to add to the $300 that is apportioned to Killingly, and they are sure that they will not fail to answer all of the calls that the war has brought.

PUTNAM

Attorney Charles L. Torrey will be at Hartford today (Tuesday), to attend a meeting of the state board of education.

It was announced Monday afternoon that 543 shares of the Putnam Building and Loan association, ninth series, had been sold up to that time. Sales of shares are being made in a way that is gratifying to officials of the association.

A review of Putnam's industrial growth during 1919 shows that the town was an exceptionally favorable one to this city, and that the promise for 1920 also is very encouraging.

Putnam's sidewalks are in dangerous condition, covered with ice and very slippery following the storms of the past few days. Much sand and ashes and other anti-slip materials are being employed to lessen the danger of falling on many walks, but other walks are receiving no attention.

There is a persistent rumor here that trolley service on the Putnam division is to be discontinued, but this report has been denied at the office of the trolley company at Danville. No orders have been issued for a discontinuance of service, though it is not profitable and loss of the cars would be some time unless the revenue is increased.

Attention of automobilists is being called to the fact that they must heed the ruling of the state automobile department and equip their cars with less than the law requires. Placards and other notices are being placed in the state automobile department have been on display here for several weeks so it will be held that there is no excuse for not knowing what the law requires.

Daniel T. Callahan of Boston has been the guest of E. C. Rogers, landlord of the Danville inn.

The commercial of representing Swanton, Vermont, American Legion, a state of colors, the gift of the Grovesford company, proved exceptionally interesting and impressive and brought together at North Grovesford a large number of the residents of the town of Thompson.

The grand list of the town of Putnam has not been completed by the necessary date, and it is expected that the total of the forthcoming list will show a material gain in the total assessed valuation of the property in this town. Putnam is one of the towns hereabout that has made a general revaluation of property this year.

There is well maintained interest on the part of the students at the night school, now well advanced in the year, and especially in the commercial department, for which it has been found there was considerable demand.

Knight's of Columbus councils in this jurisdiction are being urged to take the most active part in the program for combating radicalism, and to create an interest in this country and to undermine institutions. THE MIRACLE MAN which is at the Arpheum theatre Jan. 12-13, is a motion picture that will thrill the audience not only with its absorbing story but also with its powerful appeal.

Practically all the ice needed to meet the needs of communities hereabouts has been harvested and stored, but about two more days of work will be required to fill the tanks. The ice is being stored at Quinebaug lake, where all of the ice to be used in the general trade in Danielson during 1920 is being stored. It is thought that the work at the lake will be completed by Wednesday night.

Members of Killingly town school committee and others who are interested in matters pertaining to education have received invitations to be at Putnam this evening to attend a meeting at which Dr. A. C. Fones of Danversport will speak on dental hygiene. It is hoped that Dr. Fones' lecture will arouse interest to a sufficient degree to bring about the reevaluation of the teeth of the pupils in the public schools throughout the town of Killingly.

Lumbermen who are operating in towns in this section of Windham county are making the most of the few remaining conditions that now prevail to haul out logs from places that are difficult of access with ordinary vehicles.

Miss Dorothy Emma Hammond, daughter of Emma (Dow) Hammond, who for many years resided at the Day homestead at Alexander's lake, was educated from the Westfield (Mass.) high school with high honors.

Considering the attitude of some owners of large amounts of valuable property in Danielson in declining or evading giving to the assessors information that these officials need in making equitable valuations in the forthcoming grand list of the town, it is not to be wondered at that some of the smaller taxpayers are inclined to be irritable toward the assessors, considering that the little fellow usually gives all the information for which he is asked. This is not a reference to manufacturers for whom they have to assess may be assessed according to accepted standards for fixing valuations. The point is that there are other owners of large amounts of real property who are settling for a bare sample to the average taxpayer by attempting to evade their just share of the tax burden that a community imposes upon its property owners.

What was the east end wall of the original mill has been pulled out in order that the new part might be so connected with the old mill as to give one long room on each of the floors. ROPER ASKS CLERGYMEN TO HELP ENFORCE DRY LAW

The clergymen of the country have been invited by Daniel C. Roper, commissioner of internal revenue, to help enforce the prohibition law. Roper, in a letter to Connecticut clergymen, says in part: "After many years of controversy the national prohibition law is now an accomplished fact. But the results for which the clergy have so earnestly striven—the sobriety of manhood, the supremacy of law and order—have not been attained by the mere enactment of a law. Only by its enforcement can these benefits be realized."

The period of controversy has passed. We are not now concerned in any prohibition law, but in the enforcement of a law. It is now the law of the land. My appeal to you, therefore, is not for prohibition, nor for revenue measures, but for the enforcement of the law. The public mind must be clarified, misunderstanding of the situation swept away and the right spirit aroused.

Your own church members, of course, will give unstinting adherence to the prohibition laws; but it is necessary that they do more than that. They must also give aid and direction to their individual efforts it is strongly
